

User Environments

The website is pretty much usable wherever there is an Internet connection, so the search tool will also be equally available. However, because the map portion may not always work well on mobile devices, users will most likely be accessing the site and using the search tool from places like libraries, cafes, classrooms, offices, or from home—all places that laptops and desktop computers are frequently used.