Discussions/Decisions

- Changing the background color/pattern on the site - we got feedback from multiple people at this point that the color should be different. Something with a leaf/grass texture could look cool, if that's too difficult a static lighter green would be better
- Have the nav bar scroll with the page. We have gotten multiple points of feedback from the UX testers that it is very far to scroll if we want to change pages. This is an easy fix that makes the experience better
- Split edu pages up into two different sections. The current edu page is very long and splitting it up would make the content easier to digest. Allows us to break up the questions as well

- About page - will be done by the end of the week. No major styling needed, just extra content
- Go over and add styling where necessary. There are a lot of small things that we could do to make it look a bit better. This is the primary thing that will hopefully improve in the next week. We don't have much experience with this but we can do small changes for the better. Take into consideration smaller aspect ratio for mobile devices.

Next Steps

- Finish up final tasks by the end of the week.
