

Heinrich Schaumberger

Age: 44

Residence: Bielefeld, Germany

Occupation: Accountant for an industrial equipment company

Heinrich doesn't get to travel that often, and when he does, he tends to prefer cooler climates. That said, this time it was his wife's turn to choose the destination, and she wanted to go to Guatemala. (Why? Because Deus Ex Machina or something. I don't know, I'm just the writer.)

Goals: While his initial goals largely involved avoiding dying from heatstroke or various local critters, Schaumberger's lifelong fascination with geology was piqued when he saw the opportunity to assist in monitoring the morphology of the Volcan del Fuego, and he now wishes both to be able to provide data for the project and view the changes once he's back home in Bielefeld.

Behaviors: Schaumberger is spending most of his time in Antigua indoors, although tends to go on at least one long hike in the evening (as that's when it's cool enough for him to not immediately keel over. Heinrich's primary language is German, although he has a reasonable level of proficiency in English and studied Polish during his secondary school years.

Manuel Ramos

Age: 23

Residence: Teruel, Spain

Occupation: Grad Student taking a gap year abroad.

Manuel Ramos just graduated from university in Murcia and is taking a gap year to visit a number of places around the world. His most recent journey takes him to Antigua, Guatemala, where he hopes to experience the local culture and the beauty of the natural landscape.

Goals/Behaviors: Ramos ends up taking a guided trip up to Acatenango, spots the stand for citizen science, and figures he'll take a photo, because, well, why not? He snaps a pic, uploads it, and doesn't think much of it.

Jonathan Anderson

Age: 16

Residence: Indiana, United States

Occupation: High school Junior studying geology.

Jonathan Anderson needs to research for his latest geology project. His latest search for an interesting landmark leads to Volcan del Fuego, located in Antigua, Guatemala. The photos provided by the projects would be a perfect analysis for his high school project.

Behaviors: Jonathan finds the website in an effort to collect data for his research paper. The data provided by the project is the perfect source of information for him to gather data for his writing, and is the perfect alibi for him to earn his A.

Giovani Pozas

Age: 50

Residence: Antigua, Guatemala

Occupation, Mayor of Antigua

Giovani Pozas wants to keep up to date with the data provided by the Volcan del Fuego app in the event of a natural disaster. The data provided by this application would be a great asset in determining the condition of the volcano, and what to do if the worst is to come.

Behaviors: Giovani visits the website to collect data on the volcano, and how that may affect the surrounding area, including his place.